The Dysautonomia Foundation, New York, N.Y., is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that supports medical research and treatment for children and adults afflicted with Familial Dysautonomia (FD). FD is a Jewish genetic disease that is caused by mutations in the TRPV1 gene, which affects the body's ability to sense and respond to temperature and pain. People with FD can’t feel heat or cold or pain. They lack even the most basic normal reflexes, and often experience severe cardiovascular, pulmonary, orthopedic, gastrointestinal and renal problems. Frequent hospitalizations and multiple surgeries are common. Crying without tears is one of the most striking symptoms of FD.

Advances in clinical research have led to important breakthroughs in understanding the physiology of FD. Our clinical research laboratory continues to unravel the mysteries of FD, allowing for a “personalized medicine” approach to patient care and an ongoing program of clinical trials for new FD therapies. These advances in clinical research have led to important breakthroughs in understanding the physiology of FD.

The Dysautonomia Foundation, New York, N.Y., is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that supports medical research and treatment for children and adults afflicted with Familial Dysautonomia (FD). FD is a Jewish genetic disease that is always life threatening and sometimes fatal. Those afflicted with FD can’t do a lot of things most people take for granted. They can’t feel heat or cold or pain. They lack even the most basic normal reflexes, and often experience severe cardiovascular, pulmonary, orthopedic, gastrointestinal and renal problems. Frequent hospitalizations and multiple surgeries are common. Crying without tears is one of the most striking symptoms of FD.

Our clinical research laboratory continues to unravel the mysteries of FD, allowing for a “personalized medicine” approach to patient care and an ongoing program of clinical trials for new FD therapies. Advances in clinical research have led to important breakthroughs in understanding the physiology of FD. Yet people with FD still face tremendous challenges, and much more work remains to be done in order to achieve our goal of a definitive therapy that will alleviate the severe symptoms of FD.

Your generosity is greatly appreciated.
